

OPEN COUNCIL

Open Council is a group of leading architects, engineers, developers, construction professionals, design patrons, and thinkers who care deeply about New York City and want to support Open House New York's efforts to engage and educate New Yorkers about major issues in the built environment. Open Council members receive a range of special benefits, including invitations to special tours and receptions, advance reservations, and more.

RECENT OPEN COUNCIL EVENTS

- Construction tours of the World Trade Center Oculus and the Hills at Governors Island
- Behind-the-scenes tours of the Frick Collection and the 53rd Street Library
- Receptions in the Woolworth Tower Residences and the Postmaster's Suite at the James A. Farley Post Office Building

ABOUT OPEN HOUSE NEW YORK

Open House New York is a non-profit organization that advocates for an open and inclusive city. OHNY was founded in 2003 on a very simple idea: buildings and cities are best understood through the experience of them. OHNY exists to provide a broad public with access to the best examples of architecture and urban design—from historic to contemporary—and through that access, inspire informed conversation about the importance of architecture and urban design to the future of New York City.
